Planning on coming to Lancaster & Morecambe College? Find out how we can support you while you learn

Moving to College is the next step on the way to your career - it's an exciting time with some big changes, as well as new opportunities. Being at College doesn't mean having to do it all alone though.

There are lots of people who can support you to make the most of your time here - for the first few weeks, the whole year, or in or out of class - we're here to help.

Support at College is all about you and what you feel comfortable with.

Some people feel really confident about coming to College in September, but for others it can be a bit worrying. However you feel about starting College, here are a few things you can do to be well prepared for starting your new course:

- Come and chat with the Learning Support Team to find out how we can help. Why not bring mum, dad or the person who helps you make decisions along, so they can find out more as well.
- A visit before you start is a great idea. You get to know the tutors and support staff, check out the facilities and find out where you'll be learning, eating and chilling out.
- Get in touch! We can answer questions, help with concerns and tell you all about College and the support available Contact 01524 521245 or learningsupport@lmc.ac.uk
